Filecoin Foundation | Head of Demand & Commercial Growth Interest Letter | James Praise

Dear Filecoin Foundation team,

I'm applying for the Head of Demand & Commercial Growth role. A recurring pattern in my career is being trusted to take an ambiguous revenue problem and turn it into a structured system. At Cecure Intelligence, a cloud solutions and training provider selling with AWS, Google and Microsoft, I built the pipeline from an empty start: 1,646 marketing qualified leads, 406 sales qualified leads, 629 demos and $3.4M in open deal value, with a technical academy that reached 10,000+ users at under $0.50 each.

Later, at FunnelEnvy, I ran outbound for B2B clients with an AI-assisted stack I built. Per client per month it averaged 1,000 companies, 102 replies, 10 meetings and $151,962 in pipeline created. I also lifted enterprise meeting booking rates 31% with an account-based playbook. I check results against actual deals, because ad platforms and the sales record often disagree, and the sales record is the one that pays.

Your year in review reports 500+ developers on the Synapse SDK and nearly 4,000 onchain deals on testnet, and the Foundation now has three pods with three different buyers. I read Onchain Cloud's pricing against six other providers and wrote it up. The listed $2.50 is per copy and the default is two copies, so the lowest bill a buyer can build is $5.00, and egress decides who Filecoin beats. My first move would be a report that follows each onramp from wallet to first paid deal to repeat deal, so the 50% inbound goal has a baseline before anyone is hired. Then I would build the outbound for the pod that moves slowest, enterprise object storage, myself.

I'm based in Lagos and open to working as a contractor or through an employer of record. I'd like to talk about which pod you expect to carry the inbound target.

James

P.S. I've created a portfolio focused on this role at jamespraise.xyz/work/filecoin-foundation.