Professional Summary

Product marketing operator for business-to-business (B2B) enterprise software, working across three continents and writing mostly for North American buyers. I own positioning and messaging end to end, run launches with the commercial number attached, and build the competitive and sales material that goes into real conversations. I have run sales-led enterprise motions with long cycles and several stakeholders per deal, and I am credible with technical teams because I build with the tools myself: production Python pipelines, n8n workflows and AI agent skills. My work has contributed to more than $10M in qualified pipeline and supported 15+ product launches. More at jamespraise.xyz/work/etiya.
